Lord, when the sense of thy sweet grace
Sends up my soul to seek thy face
Thy blessed eyes breed such desire,
I dy in love's delicious Fire.
O Love, I am thy sacrifice.
Be still triumphant, blessèd eyes.
Still shine on me, fair suns! That I
Still may behold, though still I dy.

Though still I dy, I live again;
Still longing so to be still slain,
So gainful is such losse of breath;

I dy even in desire of death.
Still live in me this loving strife
Of living Death and dying Life.
For while thou sweetly slayest me
Dead to my selfe, I live inThee.

Richard Crawshaw (1612-1649)
